FROM FRENCH ARTILLERY

"Our object was to take up a new base in the shelter of Belfort. The enemy suffered severely from our ertillery. Their Howlizer battery caused us much trouble. Accordingly General Pau determined to give battle, as the enemy seemed inclined to discontinue rather than to continue the skirmish. The battle front was less extended than on the previous week. The German line of retreat lay by the canal leading to the Rhine. When the attack commenced Thann and Dannemarle were the objective points. The fight was sharp and decisive, and the Germans were driven out. They set fire to the greater part of the town before leaving.
